Nelson College London.

Nelson College London was founded in the year 2009, in London United Kingdom, to cater for the secondary school leavers who could not secure admission to the university. As at 2014, Nelson College has two campuses, Wembley and Ilford. From Ilford campus there is extension to Gants Hill.

Nelson College was established to operate in cooperation with “EDEXEL, BE-TEC, and OFQUAL” of UK and these bodies monitor to make sure that Nelson College is operating at the allowed government standard of Education. Nelson College has maintained and achieved her goals and objectives which are developing and providing educational needs for the students up to levels 4 and 5 (HNC and HND) respectively for the past six years now.

Worth mentioning is her team of administrative staff who are always there to help, thinking of what challenges involve in handling groups of people with different life styles and mentality day on day with little or no difficulty, they deserves a well-done.

Lecturers are also doing a good job because they go all out to provide what is required of the students for better learning. How I wish the College could have a better accommodation; it will give her suitable outlook.

My commendation goes to Nelson College for good feedback framework, which serve as the voice of the students that helps the management to bring things under control.

Dear Nelson College London,

Thank you so much for your support! Scholarships such as the Nelson College London Scholarship are the rewards that make a quality education possible for hard-working, ambitious students such as me. I am grateful for your kindness and your involvement in the promotion of success in the lives of college students.

I have been inspired by donors such as you who make it possible for students to make progress in college. I firmly believe that a person can be the most intelligent person in the world, but without the love and support of people who care, that person would have nothing to fight for in life. Thank you again for being part of the support that reminds me that I do have something to fight for and reminding me that my success in college matters.

Sincerely,

Andreea Teofil

— NCL Tours Catalogue writing competition —

With the Imminent launch of NCL Tours fast approaching we decided to kill two birds with one stone by running a competition between our Hospitality Management students to prepare a travel brochure.

We invited teams of up to four students to prepare a draft brochure featuring six destinations as chosen by NCL Tours, each team was allocated a lecturer to guide them through the process, they were also given £300 to develop their brochure and to get a colour copy done to hand in to the judges.

The judges included some Nelson college teachers and managers along with the Managing Director of Travel Egypt (who was very impressed with the standards achieved in such a short space of time) Each of the four teams produced some excellent work and gave the judges a very difficult job in choosing a winner. The winning team were rewarded with a trip to Barcelona this half term and every participating team member received a certificate of participation and discount vouchers from NCL Tours.

Motivational Stories

PPD

Personal professional development is a multidimensional phenomenon that has attracted considerable attention in recent years amongst practitioners, scholars (Bezzina et al., 2004; Kamal et al., 2010), and possibly learners. This construct is crucial to individuals including Nelson College students as it will assist to identify their present skills and show strategies for their long life skills and learning because today's work place is dynamic and unpredictable. Additionally, avoiding developing present skills may attract destruction.

Understanding personal professional development and implementing its tools, removes the fear of other elements that may destroy individual. This assertion is also applicable to any business as human capital development is the centre piece of corporate growth and development. "The day we screw our human capital we are doomed" (Jack Welch of General Electric). In another study, Thurrow (1999), "Businesses must be willing to destroy the old while it is still successful if they wish to build the new that will be successful, if they don't destroy themselves, others will destroy them"

Achieving a Good Life and Work

As you live through everyday buried in books, assignments and research have you ever stopped to ask yourself this question: "What am I going to make out my life?"

This question sounds generic but when you reflect more on it you may begin to realise it is a question that deals with the heavy stuff such as being a success or failure, leaving a good legacy or bad one, becoming recognized for a successful discovery or accomplishments.

Permit me to inform you that it is never too late to start thinking about what you want to be known for or successful at doing. The great inventors, painters, engineers, etc., that we all celebrate today have had some sort of interaction with what they are now good at from the days of their youth. Start now by becoming more self-aware of what you like doing, what you're extremely good at or what you are willing to do without being paid for a lifetime.

A case in point is Michael Jackson, who had been going to the studio for rehearsals since the age of five, although this might be an extreme case, another good example is Thomas Edison – the man who invented the light bulb. Edison had been curious from a young age and he had a self-determination that was unpopular for a young man of his age. Starting your journey to a good life early is a sure way to overcome all the failures ahead and put you on the path to relevance.

NCL Inaugural Tour to Istanbul

A group of thirty people met at Stanstead Airport for the very first tour arranged by NCL Tours bound for Istanbul. After an enjoyable flight and an interesting trip through Turkish customs and Immigration we arrived tired and hungry at the Hotel grand Halic. The hotel was superb, offering clean stylish bedrooms with fabulous bars and restaurants and friendly helpful staff (a real gem if you ever travel to Istanbul).

We spent two days two enjoyable days being shown some of the sights of Istanbul by coach and by boat exploring on the Bosphorus and the bazaars in the city It is the gateway between Europe and Asia and sits astride both continents, fabulous food and drink, fantastic people who were always helpful and happy to talk with us. Istanbul is to be recommended to all providing first class hospitality, fantastic culture and magnificent buildings and last but not least the world famous "Turkish Baths".
